The last thing that we did was مُضاف إلیه and مُضاف. We’ll be going back to that soon, but in order to continue, we have to go off track a little bit and learn something else. Today, we learned pronouns. We started off by first going through the original pronouns with their meanings:

- هُمْ they
- هُمَا both of them
- هُوَ he
- هُنَّ both of them (f)
- هُنَا they (f)
- هِيَ she
- أَنتُمْ all of you
- أَنتُمَا both of you
- أَنتُشَّـيَّة you-she
- أَنتُمْهَا both of you (f)
- أَنتُنَا all of you (f)
- أَنَّـهُوا we

This list is on pg.18 of the 201 Handout Packet. Memorize these pronouns and their meanings. Pronouns are one of the most important things in Arabic and will come up all the time. Make flashcards out of them and run through them for practice. I need you to know them really well before moving on to the next lesson.
EXERCISES:

Make flashcards out of the pronouns. Once you have them memorized, quiz yourself by looking only at the English and trying to guess the Arabic. Mix up the cards and practice over and over again until you can run through them very quickly.
